County Game Warden Asked to Resign by State Commissioner Wallace.—Could Not Obtain Convictions.

John H. Wallace, commissioner of the State Department of Game and Fish has requested the resignation of County Game Warden A. E. Helms. In his letter to Mr. Helms, the State Commissioner says among other things:

"I note you state that the courts are against you and that you can secure no convictions in the county of Houston.

"I feel that, as you see it, you have done your duty but on account of the fact that I do not believe you can secure any convictions, you are without hope, and when a man loses hope he loses his all and his subsequent efforts in any behalf will be with out reward.

"I shall expect to receive your resignation by return mail."

Helms Story of Fight.

For the first time since the fight, Mr. Helms gives his unauthorized version of the bout, as he saw it, which is given below:

Editor Eagle:

Allow me space in your columns to reply to the item published in The Eagle of Saturday afternoon, April 17. With justice to myself, and also to those who are not prejudiced against the game and fish laws, I will give the facts the best I can. After the defendant, T. W. Butler, together with the other four defendants, were released by J. T. Richards I walked out and started home and Mr. Butler overtak me before I got to the road. He caught me by my right arm with his left hand and said, "Mr. Helms, don't you ever have me summonsed here again unless you have got a case against me," and at the same time struck me with his right hand, having hold of my right arm with his left hand. At this time I saw some of the other defendants advancing towards us, and I was impressed from the experience and surroundings that they were going to double on me, so I kept Mr. Butler's left warded off the best I could, and watching the other parties when I knew were also my enemies and have been for nearly two years, so I kept back and Mr. Butler kept advancing on me and some one went to pass around behind me and I turned to watch that party, and I failed to ward off Mr. Butler's left and he got another kick on me, at the same time struck me in the side and kicked at me but missed his aim. It was at this time that I tried for the first time to hit. I made one kick at him and watching his friends at the same time. That was the only time I tried to get in a kick.

These are the facts as I saw them. There might have been other things passed that I did not see for I was watching Mr. Butler and his friends, so while Mr. Butler got busy I guess I was busy too. When I struck Mr. Butler he went backward a little and some of his friends caught him and would not let him advance on me any more. Then I said, "Men, this is not fair, I can't fight all of you." And then I started home again and was followed by Mr. J. T. Richards to where my wheel was standing near the roadside. He was threatening to jump on me also. Expecting foul play was the intention of the crowd, I mounted my wheel and went home.

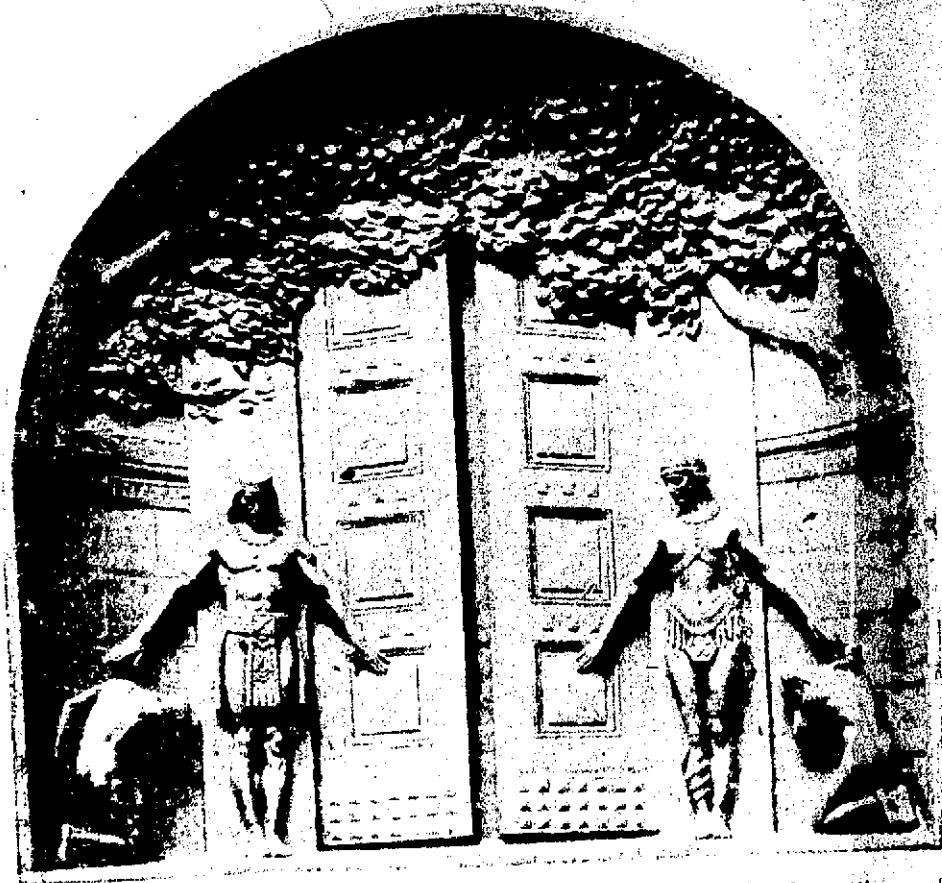

The statement in The Eagle which says that he landed several blows on Helms face is positively untrue, for there are only two places that were touched, one over my left eye was struck before I knew it, the other on my left jaw was struck while I was watching Butler's friends, named behind me at the time Butler struck the blow.

FRITZ MAISEL

Fritz Maisel, of the New York American League club, has challenged Ty Cobb, of the Detroit team to a season base stealing race. Maisel says if he bats in the 300 class he will steal 120 bases this year. Cobb so far has refused to take up the challenge, as he has been hurt several times in his efforts to pilfer bases.

FOREST FIRES SWEEP AREAS IN KENTUCKY

IN KENTUCKY

Rome, April 20.—Reports received here today from Austria say the dual monarchy is hurriedly sending troops on the Italian frontier to face a possible invasion by Italian soldiers.

A large contingent of Austrian troops, the report says, have been quartered at Montfalcone, Ronchi, and Sagrado. The Austrians are also said to have strongly fortified the whole line of the Isonzo river with fortifications, behind which batteries are in position.

Further analysis of figures announced by the Department of Commerce tonight shows that cotton exported during the week of April 14, amounted to 156,277 bales, making the total since August 1, 1914, of 7,001,157 bales.

ELKS MEETING TOMORROW NIGHT

Committee Will Investigate Finances and Not the Condition of the Hospital.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., April 20.—The Legislative Investigating Committee is in Tuscaloosa today, and during the morning inspected the buildings of the insane asylum. During the afternoon they will go over the finances of the institution with Dr. Searey, head of the institution.

"We are not here to inspect the conditions existing in the institution, but merely the finances," said Chairman Merritt, of the committee.

The committee will also investigate the buildings of the university while here. At this time however, they will not take up the university finances owing to the absence of Dr. Henry, president of the university, who is in North Carolina.

The fraternity question will not be taken up during the University investigation, according to Chairman Merritt and Senator J. T. Dennis, member of the committee. Should the fraternity or anti-fraternity men desire to appear before the committee and make statements we will be glad to hear them, they state.

Washington, April 20.—Reports reaching here today tell of forest fires sweeping across vast areas in the eastern Kentucky mountain district. Floyd, Martin, Letcher and Pike counties are said to be in the path of the blaze and already, according to reports, miles of farmers' fences and numerous isolated small buildings of farmers have been destroyed.

It is believed the fires which raged in the stricken section two weeks ago and were partially extinguished by rain, suddenly smoldered and have broken out again.

MONTGOMERY SHERIFF PREPARING FOR TIGERS

Montgomery, Ala., April 20.—After July 1 Montgomery's only legalized storehouse for liquors will be the Montgomery county jail and in anticipation of a great business Sheriff Waller and deputies are arranging the large storehouse in the basement of the jail. Its capacity will be great enough to handle all blind tiger stocks that can be found by officers.

Deputies estimate that shelves which are being placed in the room will hold 10,000 bottles of whiskey, and that enough liquor can be stored the sale of which legally would give one "bottlelegger" a sentence of 200 years in jail.

MEMORIAL DAY TO BE OBSERVED

Excellent Program at Palace Theatre Sunday Afternoon—Several Organizations to Take Part in Exercises.

In accordance with the custom of the South for the past fifty years, April 26th, is a day set apart in which to honor the memory of the Confederate dead. At least one hour of this day is kept sacred while the whole South pauses with bared head to do reverence to the courage and sacrifice of the Confederate soldier.

April 26th falls this year on Monday, and as several absorbing events are scheduled for that afternoon, the Daughters of the Confederacy have deemed it wise to hold their Memorial exercises next Sunday afternoon, the 25th, at 3:30 o'clock at the Palace Theatre. An interesting program is being arranged, and the public is invited to attend. There will be a short address, a reading, a violin solo, and vocal music by some of the best voices in Dothan.

The United Confederate Veterans, the Daughters of the Confederacy, the Dothan Guards, the Boy Scouts and the Dada Camp Pioneers will be in attendance and form part of the parade to the cemetery after the exercises are over. The Veterans will ride in automobiles provided by citizens who delight to give pleasure and comfort to those old men once young gallant boys in gray.

Every one who has flowers is requested to make wreaths and help decorate the graves of the Confederate soldiers. While Dothan has no soldiers burring around, like so many Southern towns, there are yet a number who wore the gray who have found a last resting place in the cemetery here and it should be our pleasure and our pride once a year to place flowers upon their graves in loving memory of their valiant deeds of the past.

A Critical Period.

Memphis Commercial Appeal.

The people of the cotton belt will make or mar their fortunes during the next 15 days. They are now being sorely tempted.

Cotton has bounded forward from the lowest level at an exceedingly rapid pace. Cotton now is fetching more than at any period since the war began.

If there had been no war the enormous crop would during the months of October and November have forced cotton to a level below the present price.

Encouraged by a hint of peace this summer which is based upon no fact or condition, but upon merely a hope, we are being told that there is to be an enormous wave of prosperity, and that during this flood everything that men have to sell will be high.

Let our people this year make no mistake in holding to one crop in the belief that it will fetch a big price this fall.

If cotton this fall should bring 15¢ (and we will be lucky if it brings 10¢—very lucky, indeed) wheat will continue to be around 40¢ a bushel and corn will also strike a high figure on the price boards.

Unless we grow some of the things we ordinarily buy we may again have to pay enormous prices for them, and soft things we have at a low price.

We can begin this year to make a profit, even if it brings no more than 8¢ a pound.

We can do this ourselves by growing part or all of the things that are used up while a cotton crop is being made.

Suppose last year while we were passing the hat under the spell of the buy-a-bale frenzy that we had growing in the fields soybeans, some corn and running in the pastures hogs and cattle. We then would have been panic proof.

One may answer that all crops failed last year.

The best farmers last year made some corn in spite of the dry weather. They made lots of hay.

Now if we so arrange that we can live for a few months from the products of our own land, then indeed can we be reasonably out of debt when the cotton is picked, and the money we get will carry us through the next year.

It is amazing how long a family can live from a good garden. A family in the south ought to have a garden nine months in the year.

A cow giving milk every day in the year can contribute one-half of the food to a small family.

The problem is so simple that it is amazing that it has not been solved long ago.

Learning from the books of the last three years, and from the war and from the boll weevil in the south, and the one hundred and one other things that have happened to cotton, let's begin this year to diversify just a little.

Let those who have persistently stuck to cotton growing begin this year to diversify just a little.

Let those who have been diversifying do a little more this year. Then after we diversify it does not make much difference how much cotton we plant. There is room enough in the south for raising as many acres as are now planted, and have left all of the corn, oats, peas and pasture land necessary for a food supply.

But if you do not cut the acreage this year at least plant something in the fields which have hitherto not been tilled at all.

We are making progress in this section of the country.

We printed some encouraging reports of more wheat being planted in the counties of West slate to have it understood that its husband's salary and begins talking criminal laws are a fair and their about her husband's income, administration is impartial as are

We also hear that much cotton is being planted in the fields further south.

Grow corn, hogs and hay and all things will be well in this beautiful country within a few years.

Don't be deceived by the present prospective high price of cotton and plant an enormous acreage, neglecting all other crops.

Diversify and you will insure prosperity for yourself and for your family and for your neighbor.

The Pardon Phase of ## The Frank Case.

Savannah News.

The United States Supreme Court having dismissed Le M. Frank's appeal from the federal district court, that court having refused to release him on a writ of habeas corpus, it is expected that he will now take his case before the pardon board. In fact, his attorneys have already indicated their purpose to do so.

In the Supreme Court the action of the Georgia courts in the case was very thoroughly reviewed. Their proceedings were found to be regular and satisfactory. Justices Holmes and Hughes dissented mainly on the ground that they were not entirely satisfied that the trial of Frank was an entirely fair one because of the hostility to him of the people that filled the court room and surrounded the court house during the trial. It seemed to these two justices that the court and the jurors might have been influenced by the attitude of the crowd.

The entire court seemed to be agreed that there was nothing in Frank's contention that his trial was void because he wasn't present in the court room when the verdict was rendered. The Supreme court held that that point couldn't be raised because Frank hadn't raised it when he asked for a new trial. He advanced many other reasons for a new trial but the fact that he wasn't in the court room when the verdict was rendered wasn't one of them. That seemed to indicate that at that time he didn't consider that a good ground for a new trial. As a matter of fact his attorneys had consented to his absence. It was thought that if the verdict were in his favor he might be attacked by a mob.

But all of those phases of the case are now in the past and there is no occasion for going over them again at this time in detail. They may be brought to the attention of the pardon board in showing that there is a doubt as to whether or not Frank is guilty. It is practically certain that nothing will be left undone and nothing unsaid that will likely influence the pardon board in direction of clemency. And there is reason for thinking that the state will be no less insistent on having the sentence carried out than it was in securing the sentence.

The hearing before the pardon board because of great notoriety that has been given the case will be almost as notable as the trial. The entire country was interested in the trial and will watch with intense interest the pardon board proceedings.

The Supreme Court decision is calculated to remove the impression, created by some of those who wrote up the Frank case for publications of one kind and another, it is difficult to get a fair trial in Georgia courts. The best court in the land found nothing in the law of Georgia or in their administration that called for unfavorable comment. It is a matter of importance to the people of Georgia to have it understood that its husband's salary and begins talking
